Leaders requested some support in preparing for OFSTED by having the opportunity to articulate where they are currently with regards to curriculum development and consider next steps.

Positives

The school is friendly and welcoming. The environment is tidy and well-ordered and there was a calm, working atmosphere around the school.

Teachers came across as positive and passionate about their subject areas. They demonstrated an accurate understanding of where their subjects are and have clear plans in place for developing them further.

There is a strong culture of teamwork with all staff referring to how they talk and discuss things as a team and support each other.

Suggestions for development

Continue to develop subject leaders so that they feel equipped to be the 'go to' person for their subject.

Agree on what is needed for each subject e.g. overview, key knowledge, vocabulary etc and ensure that this is in subject leader folders.

Ensure that key knowledge and skills progression are clear within each subject and develop a consistent approach to documenting them.

Subject leaders to consider the most important information they want to share about their subject areas and have examples to refer to.
